

MEET AN AWFUL FATE

Complete Story of the Horror in Mediterranean Sea.

HOW DEATH CAME TO THE UNFORTUNATES ON THE VICTORIA.

The following account of the sinking of the ship Victoria is from the London Standard, dated June 27. It is the most complete account of the disaster in the Mediterranean Sea.

NEW YORK, June 27.—At last the story of the awful disaster in the Mediterranean Sea is known. The catastrophe happened five days ago, and only the most meagre accounts of it have been printed in London. This morning the London prints from its special correspondent at Tripoli, Syria, the following complete account of the sinking of the Victoria:

About 10 o'clock last Thursday afternoon the English fleet came in sight of El Mina, the port and town of Tripoli. It was coming from the north-east, and the Victoria was in the lead. The five big ironclads, Victoria, Camperdown, Edinburgh, Nile, and Sanspareil, were drawn up in line from north to south. The Victoria was in the center, the Camperdown was on her left and the Edinburgh on her right.

When they were within five miles of shore the admiral, Sir George Collier, gave the order to anchor. The fleet was in a double line, the Victoria and Camperdown in the front, and the Edinburgh, Nile, and Sanspareil in the rear. The Victoria was in the center, the Camperdown was on her left and the Edinburgh on her right.

When the order was given the distance between the ships was about 100 yards. The Victoria was in the center, the Camperdown was on her left and the Edinburgh on her right. The Victoria was in the center, the Camperdown was on her left and the Edinburgh on her right.

The Victoria and the other vessels had not hesitated. The Victoria began to turn at once, as she still held to the signal. The Camperdown no longer hesitated, but also began to turn. The Edinburgh, Nile, and Sanspareil followed her lead.

Both admirals were quick to act. Admiral Tryon swung the Victoria so as to receive the shot from the shore. The Camperdown did the same for the Edinburgh.

There was a smashing of wood and iron plates, and the Victoria was struck. The Camperdown was also struck. The Edinburgh, Nile, and Sanspareil were also struck.

The Victoria was struck in the bow. The Camperdown was struck in the side. The Edinburgh, Nile, and Sanspareil were also struck.

JOHN BERRY FIRST

The Famous Cowboy Racer Arrived at Chicago at 9:30 A.M.

RODE THE LAST 150 MILES IN JUST 24 HOURS.

Arrived at Buffalo Bill's Tent at the Entrance to the World's Fair Grounds in an Exhausted Condition—The Distance Covered Was 1,040 Miles—Exposition News.

Chicago, June 27.—The first of the cowboy racers, John Berry, on the chestnut, Polson, reached the World's Fair entrance at 9:30 a.m. to-day. He left Freeport at 9:30 p.m. last night, and made the last 150 miles of the long race in just twenty-four hours. Mounted on his pony, Berry rode up to Buffalo Bill's grounds at the Fair entrance on sixty-three strides, and was greeted as the winner of the now famous race from Chadron, Neb.

At Freeport, Berry abandoned his other pony, Sandy, which had carried the rider good share of the distance. At 11:30 p.m. he passed through De Kalb and, continuing his journey, reached Chicago suburbs shortly after daylight. Berry was far ahead of his associates. Smith and Gillespie left Freeport two hours before him and Albright was reported at De Kalb at 10 o'clock.

Berry was covered with dust and the perspiration rolled down his bronzed face and dripped on the neck of the jaded, mud-spattered bronco, that could not be urged into a trot. The rider was clad in a gray white shirt and mud-covered yellowish jeans trousers and wore on his head a worn-out, limber rimmed cowboy hat.

He half tumbled from his saddle in front of Col. Cody's tent, so weak and tired that he was unable to rise. Col. Cody, who cordially welcomed the little man, had ridden 1,040 miles. He was hardly able to hold his head up and was supported through the crowd by two sturdy cowboys. He was taken to the hotel and given a good meal.

C

THAT COUNTRY HAS BEEN A GREAT
PURCHASER OF THE METAL.

Henry Clay was of the opinion that the measure should be passed at once, so as to prompt President Cleveland to call Congress together earlier, than September, 1893. He was of the opinion that the Congress should be brought together at the earliest possible day. The houses that were in session at the time, were not so anxious to do so, but he was so anxious in that enterprise that they tried to outstrip each other. The result was that the measure was passed by a majority of 100. The natural result must appear in a return of the surplus thus exported. At this important point, as soon as the surplus is paid, it will be time to stop a return of a good deal of gold to this country. One of the arguments in favor of the repeal of the gold standard is that it will prevent this. It has driven the finer metal out of the country. In a little while with gold returning, the country will be flooded with it, and the surplus will be shipped. An early session of Congress would enable the argument still in full force, to be made. The government would be in a position to leave the government almost entirely in the hands of the silver. It is possible that business in India will for a time be severely distressed because India has been buying gold for some time.

THE WILL THE LEAGUE CARRY WEAK WESTERN CLUBS.

It is a question which will be decided in the near future. The baseball season is now well advanced, and the results of the various leagues are being watched with interest. The Western League, which has been struggling for some time, is now in a position to carry on its operations. The Eastern League, on the other hand, is in a more precarious position. The results of the season will determine whether the Western League can carry on its operations or whether it will be forced to discontinue them.
